A-List Education partners with Quintessentially Lifestyle to offer members exclusive high quality test preparation services, expert educational advising and tutoring.

New York, NY. A-List Education (A-List) has partnered with award winning Quintessentially Lifestyle to provide members with access to educational experts and tutors – offering students a competitive edge in their academics and preparation for standardized tests like the SSAT/ISEE and SAT/ACT exams, as well as the necessary support navigating high school and college admissions.

Quintessentially Lifestyle is the leading luxury members' only concierge club providing members with its award-winning lifestyle management and concierge services for more than a decade, offering specialist advice, insider access and benefits.

A-List's expert consultants have worked with thousands of students in the United States, Europe and Asia preparing them for both the SAT and ACT provide customized educational services to students and families. From standardized tests, to academic tutoring, to admissions consulting, A-List completely committed to helping students achieve their academic goals. A-List's SAT students improve their scores by hundreds of points--at times by 500 or more--and this success has been instrumental in securing acceptances to some of the country's most prestigious colleges.

"We are delighted to be able to partner with Quintessentially Lifestyle and provide their members in Los Angeles, New York and around the world with high quality academic and college consultation, tutoring and test preparation services," Scott Farber, President and Co-founder of A-List said.

"Quintessentially Lifestyle prides itself on partnering with the best of the best in all lifestyle categories. A-List Education is the best in this space, and we saw their services as an obvious fit for our Members' lifestyles," Stacey Gordon, Director of Marketing and Communications, USA Quintessentially Lifestyle said.
